PROGRAM SUMMARY

Safety has taken a front a center stage as has health and wellness thanks to COVID-19. No one wished it but here it is and it has already had a significant impact on our projects, our offices, our lives as we knew it. We have compiled best practices for safety from leading contractors and from the area consumers of construction to share with you.

We have also invited three organizations to share their strategies and safety plans as well as well as results to date. Challenges such as desensitization in offices and at facilities, restrictions for work related travel and meetings, and communications have challenged organization leaders. This Forum is a look at construction during COVID-19 and how the industry has adapted.

TAKE-AWAYS

- A comprehensive list of COVID-19 safety best practices being implemented by the area's largest construction consumers and contractors.
- How the best practices have been implemented, received, and early results, including adaptiveness as changes in guidance evolve.
- Challenges specific to implementing new safety protocols and solutions implemented.
- Permanent changes expected due to coronavirus changes and outlook.
- Health and wellness challenges and strategies
- Improved communication strategies
